NORWAY AND VICINITY.
Oxford Pomona Field Day.
A large company assembled on the Pomona Field day at the Fair Grounds, Tuesday. Hebron, military band of fifteen pieces furnished music, Percy Hobbs, leader. Richard W. Gates of South Paris, Master of Oxford Pomona Grange, was chairman. The State Lecturer, Rev. J. H. Little, after speaking in high terms of the work of the Grange, said: "We should control our acts and speech toward our neighbors. We should cultivate the best business methods with the world at large. We do not seek more than belongs to us. We should organize as we have done recently to get the best results and prices for the products we can from producers to consumer and in our desire to cut out the middle man it is simply justice we ask, and a square deal." He referred to the social life as essential to good living and not make all of life a grind down to work.
A picnic dinner was served. Coffee was served by the Pomona-Grange and they also provided dinner for the speakers and the band, at Twitchell cottage.
B. W. McKean, State Lecturer, took up the matter of school funds. We must have this law changed at the next legislature to have this money returned to organized towns on the basis of scholars.
State Master, C. S. Stetson, talked on direct primaries. He referred to the lax caucus law that allowed a few men to run the caucus and say who should be the nominees.
The committee of arrangements for this meeting was R. H. Gates, Mrs. Carrie Roberts and Mr. J. Wilson.

Conundrum Supper.
Friday night the Emigrants spent the evening at Fred Cummings' camp on Goat Island. The special feature of the evening was a conundrum supper. The following invitation was sent out with no reference to the place where the party was to be held:
A conundrum supper at the camp of a friend. You're invited to come and no excuse need. It's Friday night and six o'clock. Be it ever so rainy, windy or fine. You may laugh and eat, but behave your best. We've told you part, you must guess the rest.
The guests were successful in guessing the place and the following party assembled:
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Swiney, guests of honor. Dr. and Mrs. H. J. Bangs. Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Stetson. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Fawcett. Mr. and Mrs. Fredland Howe Jr.
The menu was also in the conundrum form:
Oriental Squares (Napkins)
Pertaining to history and slang
(Dates and Fudge)
Thrown up by the sea. (Steamed Clams)
Kindlings (Potato Chips)
An after dinner delirium (Cocktail picks)
A famous mountain (Olives)
Nuts that did not grow on trees (doughnuts)
Imported berries (Coffee)
Rubbish (Chocolate)
Representative of two races (Chocolate and Vanilla Ice Cream and Cake)
The place cards were words beginning with the initial letter of the guest:
Happy French Joke (H. J. Bangs)
Always Has Fitted (A. H. Fawcett)
In spite of the difficulties set in their way the guests made a hearty meal and spent an enjoyable evening.
Roland C. Jewett from Boston is visiting Norway and South Paris friends.
F. A. Cole is having his house, occupied by Mrs. Bickford, given new shingles.
Annie Burbank is visiting her Norway friends. She is a guest of Mrs. Dennis Joslyn this week.
Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Macdonald of Cambridge, Mass., are guests of Mrs. Wm. C. Cole for two weeks.
Mrs. Elton Brown and son, Horace are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace C. Oxnard.
O. M. Cummings sends in a post-card from Rockville, Conn., on which is inscribed "Look out for me." Certainly.
H. D. Smith of the National Bank is having a week's vacation in Massachusetts, his wife having been there for the past ten days.
H. C. Mitchell in charge of Christ Church mission was assisted last Sunday morning by the Rev. Mr. Moulton of Lawrence, Mass., and the Rev. M. H. Carroll of Hanover, Mass.

The Advertiser office is looking pleasant than usual because Bernice Nash gave us a bouquet of asters from their beautiful flower garden. These are monster blossoms, six inches or so in diameter. There is the common aster very double, the Mikado aster, and another the petals look like quills.
Helen Noyes is spending the week with her cousin in Portland, Mrs. M. E. Somerby. Her cousin, William Noyes, and wife of Redlands, Cal., are also visiting in Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Noyes will not visit Norway this year, as has been their custom, as their stay in Maine is limited for time. The Millett family are having a reunion at Freeport this week at the Lombard and Millett cottage there, and Miss Noyes has been invited there.
G. O. Bennett celebrated his birthday on the evening of the 10th inst., that date being also the birthday of Mrs. Mary Bennett and Roland Longley. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. L. Longley, Mr. and Mrs. O. Schumner, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett, Grace Bennett, Roland Longley, Miss A. G. Wilson. Ice cream and cake were served and a very pleasant evening was spent.

At Norway Lake Reunion.
Let us once more be children at play.
Forget all the cares of the years as they sped.
We do not feel old, but youthful instead.
Our hearts they are young! so brief the time spent.
Since up by yon woodland our footsteps we bent.
To "the little red schoolhouse," shut out from the cares
Of the world that surrounded, its bustle and snare.
In that quiet spot, our heads were oft bent
O'er our books that were precious, on our lessons
Mischievous was a stranger, for order ruled there.
Our teachers loved them, and faithful their care.
In summer like Eden that fair woodland seemed
We builded playhouses, and dreamed youthful dreams.
In winter we trudged through the snow in the cold.
The boys broke a track, which we followed
For the future no thought, we children care free
Were as happy and busy as we could well be;
Content with each day and its lessons well learned.
Enjoying the present no duty we spurned.
Believing and trusting, untroubled in life,
No greener fields for gain, for honor we strife.
The weak were not trampled "neath feet of the strong."
No paths were there glided, enticing to wrong.
East, West, North and South we've traversed
The shore that our fair country; but ride the world o'er.
There is naught that so touches our hearts
As the places we trod in life's sunny May.
Today we skip the years that are fled,
Remember not sorrow, o'er which hearts have bled.
We are children at play as in former years,
With hearts that are light, with no doubts and fears.

By all
Voted to meet in one year, date to be decided by the officers of the association.
After a social time all returned to their homes feeling that Aug. 13, had been the best day of all the reunions and hoping we should all meet again next year in the pretty grove on the shore of Lake Pennesseewassee.
The deaths of members of our association since last year are as follows:
Geo. Tubbs, Mrs. Eliza Ripley Green, H. A. Whitehouse, Mrs. Nellie Newhall Manure, Lawrence Cheney, Flint, Mrs. Nellie Bradbury Whitney, Alonzo Brickett, Mrs. Harriet Upton Stevens, Mrs. Flora Martin Hammon and Frank E. Wood.
Seth Hutchins McAllister.
Seth Hutchins McAllister died in Norway, Aug. 20th. Mr. McAllister was the son of William and Olive (Durgin) McAllister, and was born in Stoneham, Jan. 21, 1853. He attended the public schools of Stoneham.
"They moved to Norway 9 years ago, where he has since lived." He has worked in the sled factory at South Paris, and for the last three years has been watchman in the shoe factory.
The deceased was a Democrat and a member of the Methodist church. He was a Knight of Pythias and an Odd Fellow; also a member of the Sons of Veterans. His father is one of the oldest Veterans in the state, being 95 years.
Mr. McAllister leaves a wife, who was Abbie Perkins of Biddeford, and two sons, Fordie and Seth Harbert, who work in the sled factory, and a daughter, Lucy A. Morgan.
This spring he went to the hospital and underwent a serious operation for cancer in the stomach. After his return he was better but it was thought best for Mr. and Mrs. McAllister to give up housekeeping and live with their daughter, Mrs. Morgan.
The funeral was held on Water street in Norway, at 1 p. m. Tuesday, Aug. 23. Rev. B. C. Wentworth was the presiding clergyman.
Archie Swift has returned home from his vacation.
Central Park Pictures show are having large crowds, Saturday and Monday nights, and a good party danced after the pictures, Saturday night. Music by Stearns full orchestra. New pictures and songs this Saturday and Monday nights. Saturday night, dancing after pictures.
Thomas E. Hallett of Boston the "cottonlene and gold-dust" man is in town. He registers at the Inn, but his real home is in Bridgton, Me., being son of J. H. Hallett, the machinist and die maker of that town. The grocery shop window will soon be in "Cottonlene and Gold-dust" style.

THE NORWAY ADVERTISER
(OXFORD COUNTY, ME.)

NUMBER 34. AUGUST 26, 1910, NORWAY, MAINE. VOLUME XLII.

Republican Rally.

The first Republican rally in this campaign was held at Norway Opera House, Wednesday evening. The house was well filled and taken "by the large" it had the flavor of the time honored rallies. The stage was beautifully decorated with the stars and stripes. The flags were of different sizes and were effectively draped. Prominent in the background was the big "Gen. George L. Bates." The Lamby Castle Band of South Paris played in front of the Opera House and then made music in the hall. This is a large band composed of youngsters and they make good music.
Seated on the stage were the speakers of the evening and prominent Republicans of Norway—Col. E. F. Smith, Col. A. J. Stearns, Hon. J. A. Roberts, Capt. W. W. Whitmarsh, Dea. William H. Porter, Capt. J. W. Nash, F. A. Dantforth, H. J. Bangs, T. P. Richardson and Fred A. Mann. The galleries were thrown open after an effort to get some of the bashful ones standing in the back of the hall to "come down in front," and many availed themselves of the gallery seats.
Of course a republican rally is a good deal handicapped in Maine for they cannot all of the evil their opponents have done. Because it has been so long since the opponent has had an opportunity to do evil. Even when they have had a chance in the past half century it has only been a part of a chance under guard in other departments of the State government. Thus the speaker could only point to their own glorious achievements.
Col. A. J. Stearns called the meeting to order and introduced Col. E. F. Smith as chairman. Col. Smith made a short speech in a graceful manner and introduced Hon. Warren C. Philbrook of Waterville, Attorney General of Maine. The speaker was in a happy frame of mind. He complimented the band boys on their playing and said he was pleased to see so many young boys and young men in the audience. In fact he did not remember of addressing a political audience where so many young people attended. He also noticed the ladies of whom there were a goodly number scattered in with men, who conduct by their votes the affairs of State. There were men active in the good of their party to whom the speaker had been introduced during the century milestone. He spoke on State and local issues and particularly emphasized the point that it was the principle of the individual that the voter should consider when they cast their ballots. Both parties had put good men in the field. He alluded to the added improvements that we demand as the years go by that call for added cost that the State has assumed, like the insane asylum, the school fund, the Normal and State colleges, the State roads and the like. How through wise business management the Attorney General's department was enabled to turn into the State treasury more than expenses.
The Attorney General said words in highest praise of the ability of his Assistant Attorney General and our townsman, Charles P. Barnes. That given his health and strength, he would be an honor to his town of Norway.
The band played a selection and the chairman introduced the Hon. Frederick A. Powers of Houlton, candidate for the position in the United States Senate, recently occupied by Senator Hale. He spoke on National issues. He is an easy speaker and handled the tariff and money departments well. The boys were more interested in the boys' playing in the band than they were in the burning question of the tariff. As we are sorry to write that the boys in Norway were so ill mannered with all the advantages that have been given them that they interrupted the speaker by going out and obliging him to stop in his speech. Right here we want to say to the boys of Norway, for this is not the first time they have disturbed a public meeting in this way, make it a principle if you attend a public meeting to stay till the close, more especially if it is a free meeting. If your time is so valuable you can't put it into the meeting don't go and disturb others.
The speaker spoke of the change of the tariff in the last legislature and as a local illustration he took the bill of fare from which he had eaten supper at the Ball's hotel and showed that item by item the tariff had not raised the prices of the food of that bill of fare. It was better for the laboring man to get more for what he had to sell and pay more for what he bought than to get less and have less to pay it with. Trusts were made by conditions rather than legislation, but these legislation had and was controlling. He believed in the enforcement of the prohibitory law.
They could point to what they had done as a party in the past, assure the continuance of the policy and hope for a brilliant future.
The Radcliffe team reorganized.
The Radcliffe baseball club has once more received the creative breath of life and will finish the remainder of the season, or until County Fair, under the management of Carl (Cy) Young.
"Cy" is well known among the local fans as a ball player, and as one thoroughly familiar with every dodge in the game, thus we can see no reason why under his care a team should not get together and develop speed.
Manager Young has gathered many new ball tossers, well known to the local sporting fraternity, so will endeavor conscientiously to deliver a good clean article that should revive the game for a few weeks at least.
It is reported that the fortunes of the new organization will not depend on subscription paper or friendly contributions; but the gate receipts, during the next three weeks will be the only channel opened to float the running expenses. This a generous patronage is earnestly desired at the fair grounds, next Saturday, because each quarter received at the gate will be expended right on "the level" for the benefit of each and all players.
During the County fair "Cy" team will be up against Dixfield, Canton and Mechanic Falls, so the next three games will be necessary if speed of the long winded kind is to be shown during the game show.

Ralph Osgood, Lena Osgood and John Briggs, are at family home of the Sabor's, at Meredith Center, N. H.

A Peck of Honey Been Captured.

"Vid Gammon, one of the twins," hunts foxes and lines bees for the fun there is in it. He is a good stone mason and he and brother "Mate" have put in the foundation for many a building in the past fifty years. Thus you will see the "twins" have been with us a good while—high on to 70 years and have done their full share of work, made money and have had some fun going along the journey. "Vid's" health is not robust and has just recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia, but he likes to line bees.
Recently he started a line back of their house and not being able to follow it telephoned Al. Whitman of Oxford and it was found that the bees were three miles to a big oak near Sanborn's Ferry, The Farm, 5 1/2 rods west of the Sand Pond Trail at the height of land.
Permission to cut the tree and capture bees and honey was given, provided Sanborn could be in at the battle.
The oak was fully 30 inches through and was chopped, sawed and wedged over. The bees had two entrances to their home some 15 feet above the ground.
After the tree was down smoke was blown into the holes and holes stopped up. The tree was sawed into and a piece chopped out revealing the bees and comb. The brood comb was put in a box with a wire screen door, and the door left open. The bees were gathered up and put in this box as the comb and all the honey had been taken the bees were scraped off the log and gently shook into the box.
Vid Gammon and Al Whitman were the chief operators, and the latter got stung only twice while Mr. Gammon escaped. Screen cloth was used to protect face and neck but bare hands were used in the work.
This year it is supposed to have come from Paris about the first of July. They had gathered sufficient honey for winter, some two ten quart pails of honey and comb being taken beside a peck of bees. For many years past Al. Whitman and Vid Gammon have hunted bees. "It is safe to say they have taken close on to 200 swarms. They recently recalled and figured out the taking of 125 swarms.
The bees assisting in the capture were Joseph Larf, F. H. Noyes, J. H. Hodgdon, F. W. Sanborn, besides Mr. Gammon and Al. Whitman.

Don C. Seitz Entertained Abroad.
We copy the following from The Japan Advertiser, Tokyo, of Friday, July 29:
Baron Shiburawa yesterday tendered an elaborate Japanese luncheon and entertainment at his residence in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Seitz of New York City. Amongst the many present were Mr. Ishii, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, Baron and Baroness Sakata, Baron Matsuo, President of the Bank of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Mr. Asano, President of the Tokyo Kisen Kaisha, Mr. Nakano, Chairman of the Tokyo Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Masano Hanabara, First Secretary of the Japanese Embassy at Washington, Mr. Soyeda, President of the Industrial Bank, Mr. Fukui, Managing Director of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, Mr. Y. Numano, Japanese Consul at Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Zamoto.

Work Begun on the Block.
Work on the extension of the Odd Fellows Block was started Tuesday. It was found necessary to strengthen the south east corner, otherwise the foundation will be used. John W. Burrows Co. of Portland, has the contract, and A. J. Hunnewell is superintending the job. At present, timber is being hauled, and active work on the building will start when the bricks arrive. Geo. Ames, Elbridge Walker and Frank Starbird are working there at present.

Mrs. Percy Cole spent the Sabbath in Portland.
In making up the present check list for the two town selectmen removed 88 names from the old list of the last election and have added 38 new names and more to go on.
We do job printing as you want it done and at right prices too. Get our estimate. Can give orders to anyone who works in this office and they will receive attention.
K. Q. Elliott and wife, Frank Cox and wife, and Mrs. Noyes, were in Paris, Tuesday, when they got to South Paris the train was six hours late so they had to return.
Thursday night the following party spent the evening at Harry Jones' cottage: Fred Cummings and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Frank McSwain and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barrows of Barton, Vt.
Dr. Carlton A. Rowe and wife of Milton, Mass., F. W. Lord and son Philip of Oxford, were the guests of Mrs. Alonzo Edwards at the Munroe cottage by the lake. Master Philip won on catching a four pound bass.
Gerald Daniel Smith, Merle Stuart and Robert Harding Snow caught some bass at the Crocker's Bridge last Monday. They had a dozen good specimens, some fine fish and hornpout. They were bare foot boys with crooked adder poles but they got the best fish the same.
J. R. Parrott of Jacksonville, Fla., of the F. E. C. Railroad Co., one of the successful railroad men of the country, is enjoying a vacation among the "Oxford boys" and especially at his boyhood home, the town of Oxford. He was in Norway, Tuesday in company with J. B. Robinson on an auto party.
Emma Elizabeth Porter was taken ill Saturday, and her mother being out of town made it especially sad for the little Miss, who is just a baby. Mrs. Porter was sent for and came at once. This was a great relief to baby's mind, for though she does not mind her mother's being away so very much when she is well, found it particularly bad when not feeling well. She has recovered her usual good health.
Tuesday evening Aug. 23, Albert, Canwell was happily surprised by a party which gathered at his home to help celebrate his 52nd birthday. Mr. Canwell was the pleased recipient of various gifts and was enjoyed and a fine treat of candy, peanuts and cake was served. At the close of a most enjoyable evening the party broke up wishing Mr. Canwell many happy returns of the day.

Moses Cummings and Earl Maxim' of Locke's Mills visited their relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cummings, on Paris street over Sunday.
Mrs. Roswell Frost has returned home after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Flood, at Farmington. Mrs. Frost was accompanied by her daughter as far as Auburn, where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Guy Frost. Bertha Harnden also spent the week-end at Guy Frost's.

Mrs. Horace Cole visited Bethel, Friday, to hear Jane Addams, who gave an address on Hull House and settlement work in Chicago. Miss Addams also told of the work of Bishop Ingram, and Toynbee Hall, East Side, London, and of settlement work in New York East Side.
Mr. and Mrs. J. Howard Holden of Rochester, N. Y., will spend a few weeks with Mrs. Holden's grandmother, Mrs. Clara A. Hayden. Mrs. Holden is known to Norway people as Nellie Hayden, daughter of the late Charles and Alma Pendexter Hayden. On the way here they have visited at Beverly and Manchester, Mass.

For a great many years the old spring below the mill dam on Pleasant street, has furnished excellent water for the whole neighborhood. Besides the quality of the water the spring is of interest from being situated in the middle of the brook; a plank walk leading to it. Now, however, the bridge has been broken down and is utterly impassable. The spring is closed up with dead fish and rubbish. It seems a shame to the village to allow such a fine spring of water to be in such a condition.
Rev. Marcus H. Carroll, rector of St. Andrews church at Hanover, Mass., has been visiting Mrs. Emma Bickford for a few days. He came here on his way from Lancaster, N. H., where he is pastor of a church for several years. Rev. Mr. Carroll has been rector of St. Andrews church for the past three years. His society is the 5th oldest Episcopal society in Massachusetts, nearly 200 years since its organization. There are one hundred and six communicants at present. The 100th anniversary of the building of the church edifice will be celebrated next year. Mr. Carroll is as much interested in music as he was when in this town. He says they are to have a new three thousand dollar organ for their church next year. His wife, a daughter of Mrs. Bickford of this town, has been here this summer, and will be here again in the fall. Everyone was pleased to see Mr. Carroll, and wish his stop here could have been longer.

30th Marriage Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevens of Sanborn street celebrated the 30th marriage anniversary, Mrs. Stevens' birthday, also the birthday of one of her daughters on Wednesday evening, Aug. 24th. The event was planned by Mrs. Wm. S. Bickford and Mrs. Osborn Ripley, being a surprise to Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. They received a very elegant present from the family and a few invited guests. A fine musical program was given by the Rev. M. H. Carroll, both vocal and instrumental.
Choice refreshments were served and the evening was greatly enjoyed by hosts and guests.
At the Lake.
H. B. Young is painting his cottage at the lake.
E. S. Paret and party are at Mr. Paret's camp for a few weeks.
Because of the unusual high water, passenger boats on the lake will run until Oct. 1.
S. H. Hayden is having new concrete steps built at his cottage. George Swift is doing the work.
Mrs. John Callahan, daughter and party of friends arrived at the Columbian Monday, for a few weeks' stay.
The Lake Carnival evidently did not materialize. Such a time would do much to bring the cottage and town people together, besides furnishing a very pleasant time.

Noble's Corner.
Roy Upton is at work for Arthur Noyes for a few days.
Frank, Harrison and Cort. Hunt and Roy White of this place have gone with Roy to New York.
Ross Upton is very sick, caused by lead poisoning by drinking water running through lead pipe.
Quite a lot from this place attended the Pomona Grange field day held at the Oxford County fair grounds, Aug. 23.

"IN A BAD WAY"

Many a Norway Reader Will Feel Grateful for This Information.

When your back gives out; Becomes lame, weak or aching; When urinary troubles set in, Your kidneys are "in a bad way." Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you. Here is local evidence to prove it. M. M. Kilgore, Danforth St., Norway, Me., says: "I do not think there is a kidney remedy on the market as effective as Doan's Kidney Pills. I suffered from backache and pains through my loins. My kidneys were badly disordered and the secretions passed irregularly. At times my back was so lame and sore that I could scarcely stand. I did not rest well at night and felt miserable in every way. At last I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills and I procured a supply from Stone's Drug Store. This remedy cured me and I have been well since. I keep Doan's Kidney Pills in the house at all times and recommend them whenever I hear anyone complaining of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

Norway Lake School-house.

The following was written and delivered by Chas. S. Bartlett at the Norway Lake School-house, Aug. 18.

We sat again, with bowed head bare, We stand within thy portals low, Lamenting the joys that have fled, And the sorrows that have come to be true.

In earlier days when wisdom's paths we trod, Gleaning our hard-learned lessons (sometimes with a rod), We looked on you old school-house somewhat with awe, Nor did we then affection in our passing glance.

But years have changed our visions' span, The boy has grown up to a man, Along rough roads his feet are led, And lacerated, bruised and sometimes bled, Life's battles must be fought, the slaughter dear.

Our victories won are sometimes purchased dear, But faith above in all things right and true, Gird us about and seek our path anew. To struggle on, the burdens lighter grow, For across our life the never-fading beacon thrown.

Fair knowledge's light before us gleams, We take our way fresh guided by its beams, And then art the talisman which across each shoal Beams ever forward to reach the goal, Through tempest dread; the fear of self and all.

We rise above nor do we fear to fall, A shrine is here, to us as pilgrims came, In days of old led by religious flame, And bless our school for duty done, Even so do we bow down today.

Here in this spot our nation's glory lives, For in this building with open hand she gives; This syllable of greater power holds, Than all the gorgeous temples built of old. The germ rests here of mental power, Reaching to the stars in living dove.

To add thereto, to grow and last attain The golden age, by honest gain. For in this building, in these walls alone, Not pell and dross by license here will lie, And our nation's greatest shame never die.

Your precepts, O beloved school, Are true today in word and role, And this as children here we come And bless our school for duty done, Even so do we bow down today.

We love thee now as we'er before, As down life's pathway we are borne; We thank thee for the guidance wide, Bidding us live its maxims to abide.

"Toil on my son my ways to know, Thy mind in time to mine may grow," We thank thee for the guidance wide, Bidding us live its maxims to abide.

This mortal friends I would impart, We thank thee for the guidance wide, Bidding us live its maxims to abide.

God gives us all His power sublime, Time changes not its rhythmic line, Never His precepts do these forget, All life's a school for ever and for aye, We bow to Thee and close, this sweetest day.

Auburn, July 14, 1910. CHAS. S. BARTLETT.

Just Two Kinds. "There are just two kinds of people in this world today. Just two kinds of people. No more, I say. Not the good and the bad. For it is well understood, The good are half bad; And the bad are half good; Not the rich and the poor, For you must first know the state Of his conscience and health. Not the humble and proud In life's little span. Who puts on vain airs Is counted a fool. Not the happy and sad As the swift-flying years, Lead to each man his laughter, And to each man his tears. And the two kinds of people On earth that I mean, Are the people who live, And the people who lean."

Brighter Side. "If those who whine would whistle, And those who languish, laugh, The rose would rot the thistle, The grain would rot the chaff; If grief were only joy, If grieving were forgot, Were things that now are not; Then love would kneel to duty, And all the world would seem A bridal bower of beauty, A dream within a dream."

Fitting the Boy. In a recent college report a comparison was made between the public High Schools and private preparatory schools. The boy in the private school goes to a university better prepared than the boy from the public school does better work after he gets there.

The great point is not what a boy actually brings but what he can develop after coming. Effort from the boy from the private school is not necessary. The boy from the public school has usually grown up where nearly everything means struggle and, if he makes good at all, it is through his own exertions. This kind of boy may not come with the best approved finish to the university but he comes with something better—temper; and when the student leaves the university for the world, temper is going to be his chief asset.

Village Rest Rooms. The rest room is a novel and very useful feature of the up-to-date New England village. The room is usually in the business center of the town and is furnished with chairs, tables for luncheon, heater for boiling water for tea and coffee, lavatories, reading table supplied with the day's papers and magazines and other essentials for the convenience and comforts of the country folk who do their trading in the town.

Oxford Pomona Grange. Oxford Pomona will hold its September meeting at Oxford on the First Tuesday, Program: Social ceremony, Business, Routine work, Tribute to Lafayette, Reading, Music, Paper, Hebron Grange Question, Furnished by Oxford Grange, Music, Furnished by Oxford Grange.

Imagination. A young doctor recently took his best girl to the opera. The curtain was late in rising, and the young lady complained of feeling faint. The doctor smiled sweetly upon her, took something out of his vest pocket and whispered to her to keep the "tablet" in her mouth, but not to swallow it.

She shyly placed it on her tongue, and rolled it over and over, but it would not dissolve; she felt better, however. When the show was over she slipped the tablet in her glove being curious to examine at home this tablet, indissoluble little substance which had given her such relief in the opera house. When alone in her room she pulled off her glove and out came a mother-of-pearl shirt button!

A Hint for Hemmers. Everyone knows how hard it is to turn a very narrow strip of perfectly even hem in a napkin. Put the hemmer attachment on the sewing machine, but do not use any thread. Just run the napkin through the hemmer without sewing and they are created as narrow as desired, perfectly even and are all ready for hand sewing.

The Chicks in Late Summer.

As soon as the sex can be distinguished, it is a great plan to separate cockerels from pullets. Both will improve much faster if this is done, as they need different food to develop each along the line for which it is intended, says the American Cultivator.

I have often noticed that when the main object of chicken raising is to get a large and profitable plan to kill the cockerels of the small breeds as soon as they could be distinguished, and give all the space, food and time to the pullets.

When they all run together the cockerels soon outstrip their sisters in size and strength, are first at the food trough, crowding out the smaller ones, are first in their night quarters, crowding the smaller ones to their discomfort and not have to be mated with the cocks before they begin to annoy the pullets.

Removed to a pen by themselves they can be fed corn and gotten ready for market. Their scrappy nature will vent itself in a fight from astory occasionally, but they can do little harm and can be gotten off one's hands more quickly in this way.

The pullets should be given good range and plenty of growth promoting food, wheat, oats or barley, with little or no corn. Meat, either green or in the dry meal or bone, bone sold in the feed stores, they should be given in abundance. The dry form is less likely to loosen the bowels. Grit, lime and charcoal are among the necessities, and green feed, if the yard is not supplied with, should be given them.

Nothing is better than clover for this, although waste from the vegetable garden, raw pumpkins, kale from the growing crops, etc., will answer the purpose very well. If confined, fresh water is essential to their health. The drinking vessels and their contents sometimes seen make one wonder that the chicks do not all die with cholera. I have had Leghorn pullets laying before they were five months old when given this care.

Lice, if they once get a hold, are troublesome during August and September. They increase fast and will do the chicks more harm than half their feed can make up. Dust them thoroughly once in ten days with insect powder and keep the coops clean and disinfected.

A good dust bath should be provided for all fowls at all times. Dry road dust is one of the best absorbents and lice killers that I know of put in the coops or under the perches. In winter it is the best of dust baths. It is easily obtained and costs nothing but the time of storing it away. I have sometimes thought that was the chief reason why it was so little used.

The pullets that are well grown and developed early will be the ones that will fill the egg basket when prices are high this fall and winter. A little extra care now will get them to laying a month or two earlier than they will if left to develop without it.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they can reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send for testimonials free.

Ahead of the Rich. Ten cents a quart for new potatoes!!! shrieked the old woman with the basket at the grocer. "Why I would go without 'em all my life before I would pay that!"

"I can't blame you," he replied. "I feel that way myself. 'It's the scarcity, you know.'"

"And what makes the scarcity, I'd like to know?"

"It was so many farmers going to camp-meeting just the time they ought to have been hoeing their potatoes."

"And the rich cut's at that price, let alone a poor woman that has to count her pennies."

"Say, now," he replied in a voice of confidence, "I pledge you my word that if it wasn't for getting even with them 'I wouldn't have hoed a potato in the house.'"

"Tell me how the scarcity appeared."

"Why, a rich man came in to buy potatoes this morning and, counting his family and servants, he had to buy nine quarts to get enough for a meal."

"Ninety cents? You don't say?"

"And don't you see that while the rich have to pay out 90 cents we poor folks have to pay only 10?"

"Of course, dear man. That puts us 80 cents ahead."

"It sure does."

"Then give me a quart and I'll do no more hoeing. Lor' if I can make the rich pay nine times what I do I'll go without tea and put it all into potatoes and thank Heaven that the poor are getting their rights at last."

A squirrel's mode of eating huckleberries is most interesting to see. He runs up a tree nearest the berry bushes for a short distance, fastens his hind feet to the bark of the tree, and hanging head downward, swings his body until he can catch hold of the huckleberry bush, which he then holds firmly with his forepaws, while he eats his fill of the fruit.

Fraud in Textiles.

Loaded Silks, Shoddy Woollens and Other Articles at "Bargains."

A reasonable control, regulation or supervision of the sale of commodities is clearly within the province of state and municipal governments; and beyond question such control is within the powers of the federal government where the sales involve interstate commerce.

It is on this principle that the national pure food law was formulated and enacted and is now being enforced. The means that purchasers of goods in the markets of food distribution are given protection by means of a label, tag or some other suitable device that tells plainly and truthfully the constituents of the article offered for sale.

Applied to the textile industry, which is the greatest in extent and the most immediate in its connection with the domestic life of the country, this supervision by the government would protect the woman purchaser of silks, woollens, worsteds, linens, cotton, carpets and the various miscellaneous lines of textiles. That such protection is needed is patent to everybody familiar with the methods that universally prevail in the textile trade.

To show to just what extent the inferior article is foisted upon the public a few glaring instances can be cited. It is not the domestic manufacturer who inaugurated this system of manufacturing inferior goods, but it came as a legacy from the mills of the old world and is still being used by them and has been adopted by us. It permits the "loading" of silks by the use of a tin solution, which adds to their weight, increases their temporary brilliancy, but cuts their life short from 40 to 50 per cent. Instances can be shown where silks are "loaded" as high as 45 or 55 per cent. The use of cotton filling in so-called silk ribbons and dress fabrics is notorious, and the goods should be properly labeled. The woman who wants to buy a so-called silk dress for one-half the price of real silk should know what she is purchasing and not be deceived into the belief that by some special purchase from a manufacturer in distress a retailer is able to offer a "wonderful bargain."

On lines of mercerized goods the fact that they are cotton and not linen should be plainly set forth. In appearance the mercerized goods may be as brilliant as the finest linen, and unscrupulous retailers find no difficulty in disposing of them as such. It is on lines of woolen and worsted dress goods and on some of the lower grade men's wear fabrics that the greatest manipulation is done in the way of mixing new wool with shoddy and in making up fabrics in which cotton is made an important constituent.

In some instances from 40 to 50 per cent. of an alleged wool fabric is made from cotton, the cotton warp or in the filling. So flagrant has been the use of cotton in men's wear that many lines are sold with the solemn assurance by the seller that "there is not a thread of cotton in this; we guarantee all wool." This fallacious statement is an actuality. The mercerized worsted suiting is a deception and a snare.

It should be sold for what it is and not be made up into suits for men believing that they are buying a fabric made of wool and cotton which, as experience positively proves, has not got the wearing quality in it. It is an adulteration that has driven respectable milliners to the manufacture of this hybrid fabric. They do not do it through choice but through necessity. A rigid descriptive ticket on these fabrics would soon drive them out of the market.

On hosiery and underwear the legion of tickets that manufacturers place on their goods are deceptive in many instances. They state "this fabric is made from long staple combed yarns and is non-shrinkable" and yet these qualities are offered at prices that would make it impossible for long staple cotton to be used or the added process of shrinking to have been used.

On hosiery for both men and women the use of cheap mineral dyes is resorted to and yarns of an inferior character are used whenever the manufacturers believe that they can find a market for their finished product. A few hesitate to label their goods a "hole proof" and "dye guaranteed not to run."

Collars and cuffs are sold at retail and are described as linen when, as a matter of fact, they are made up entirely of cotton. Others are made with a linen outside ply and a cotton filling for the inside ply. Shirts are made with a linen front and all the rest of the garment is made of cotton.

Such articles can find a market but they should be properly labeled; and a man should know when he is paying 50 cents to $1 for a shirt that he is not being given a present in the way of an alluring shirt, as he is sometimes led to believe. When $2.50 or $3.00 is paid for a shirt and it is held out as being linen, it should be such.

In a country with the population of the United States there is a market for all grades of goods, but they should be sold honestly and each class should be properly labeled. It is no more of an injustice or hardship for the manufacturer of textiles to tell the truth about his goods than it is for the packer of food products to put truthful labels on his goods. Fraudulent practices in textiles are absolutely on a par with short weight and short measure in the sale of any other commodity.

Widowers.

It is a sad thing to be a widower. If a widower mopes around and won't mingle in society and refuses to take part in any little innocent amusements the women say he is putting it all on for fear folks will think his grief is not real. If he mourns for the conventional period and then begins to sit up and take notice the women say he is a callous brute and they pity the woman who is foolish enough to marry him. If he plunges in all his spare-time with his children they say it is too bad he doesn't pick out some motherly woman and marry her and give his children a real home. If he doesn't spend all his spare time with his children they say the poor little things are cruelly neglected, and that's what might be expected of a man, anyhow.

ROXBURY.

Henry, Mary and Lommas Thomas, and Grace Hodge of Andover, have returned from a few days' stay at Four Ponds. Plenty of fish and a very good time were reported.

Rural Delivery Cost.

There are now in operation throughout the County 41,089 rural routes, and the appropriation for the establishment and maintenance of rural delivery for the fiscal year which ended June 30, was $87,200,000; while the appropriation for the fiscal year which began on the first of this month, is $88,800,000. Since rural delivery was established the approximate sum of $206,430,800 has been spent in extending and maintaining the service.

Attempted Theft.

A theft was attempted on Mr. Gottschalk of New York City, Thursday evening. Mr. Gottschalk, who is an invalid, had just gotten a new attendant from Portland, who took an expensive diamond ring from the gentleman's finger, but the ring was soon recovered and the attendant sent to Portland where he came from 24 hours earlier.

Mrs. Leonard Andrews of North Fryeburg, visited Mrs. Q. Stevens.

Mrs. Q. Stevens and Edna McAllister shelled and canned 30 cans of peas, recently, being the best quality of telephone.

Another terrific thunder shower just at night, the 15th. Rain fell in torrents, washing roads and doing a great deal of damage.

Wilson Emery, daughter and sister, went with friends to George Fox's cottage at West Lovell. A picnic dinner was enjoyed by all, there being some over 40 at a gathering.

Mrs. O. Elliott and little daughter of Kezar Falls, are the guests of her sister, Mrs. Q. Stevens. Also Mrs. Strout and her daughter of North Fryeburg, are spending a few days with her sisters.

Boy Wanted.

A certain business man is of the opinion that he has an exceedingly bright office boy, and nothing pleases him better than to tell how he acquired the youngster's services.

A notice had been posted in the man's shop window, which read as follows:

Boy wanted about 14 years.

A lad of that age, with little that was prepossessing in his appearance, came into the office and stated that he had read the notice.

"So you think you would like to have the position?" asked the merchant patronizingly, as he gazed at the lad over the rims of his spectacles.

All signs are easily emboldened and for money courtesy returned.

HARRISON.

An Ancient Concord Coach Sold.

The coach has done duty more or less for Sumner C. Davis for the past 40 years. He bought it over in New Hampshire from the Boston, Concord & Montreal railroad, paying $150, - the same amount the railroad paid out to have it put "in shape" the winter before they sold it. The road had no further use for it so they let it go, notwithstanding a few years before they paid Abbott, Downing & Co., a thousand dollars for the vehicle.

Last week Mr. Davis sold it to go on the Casco & Portland stage line for $1.50. It looks as good as new, and as fresh as right from the shop.

Wise ones like F. A. Eastman, the veteran stage driver, says it "ain't hurt a particle and good for a hundred years more, if the new owners don't use it any more than Sumner did."

That settles it.

CONSISTENCY.

A foolish consistency is the hobgoblin of little minds. With consistency a great soul has simply nothing to do. He may as well concern himself with his shadow on the wall. Out upon your guarded lips! Sew them up with pack thread, do. Else, if you be a man, speak what you think today in words as hard as cannon balls, and tomorrow speak what tomorrow thinks in hard words again, though it contradict everything you said today.—Emerson.

Trembling on the Brink.

When one is considering how to save time it is well to take into account such an item as affected the daily habits of a certain wealthy citizen who, a writer in the Birmingham Age-Herald tells about. "Are you still taking a cold plunge every morning?" asked a friend.

"No; quit that to save time."
"Why, a cold plunge doesn't take but a minute or so."
"I know, but I used to spend three-quarters of an hour curled up in bed hesitating."

Broke His Collar Bone.

John P. Foster rode his black gelding Stingy Jim, a mile and as he pulled up the mile, the horse turned turtle and fell over on Mr. Foster, breaking his collar bone and injuring three ribs. This accident will probably lay Mr. Foster off for at least six months. This is a great disappointment to Wm. R. Chapman of Maine Musical Festival, as Mr. Foster has been in charge of his three horses, Masterpiece, Dusenbury Wilkes and Aeroplano, since May 1st and wanted to start them at the various fairs.

Ten Days Tour.

The 10-days' tour of duty at Pine Camp is in accordance with the plans of the war department to give the boys service under regular army conditions. This year the aim is more the teaching the actual duties of a soldier rather than spectacular maneuvers; but at the same time the boys will have put in many hours of hard work before their return.

THE INVALID'S HAIR.

How a Woman Sufferer May Be Spared Much Pain.

In every one's life there comes the work of having to comb or disentangle the hair of a woman who has been sick. It is not an easy task. It requires patience and a good deal of knowledge. Those who have never done the work may be glad to stow away in their memory these facts:

That knots in hair should always be disentangled from below, not above.

In smoothing and combing a sick person's hair the first work is to part it from forehead to nape of neck and brush the two divisions well away from each other.

The hair should be separated by the comb into small divisions, one at a time, beginning at the forehead. The combing should begin at the end of hair, never at the scalp. The hair near the head should be securely held by the hand and twisted over one finger so that the scalp will not feel any pull from the comb.

Begin work about an inch from the end and gradually work up. When a knot is struck it should be separated, if possible, from the smooth hair and loosened by the teeth of the comb at its lower edge.

The comb should not be placed above it, as this will make it more obdurate and snarl the other hair. If a knot is loosened by the teeth of the comb inserted into the outer edges and shaken gently, the hairs uncoil and spring back into the rightful position.

A little skill and a little patience will teach a person how to disentangle any snarls with speed and ease.

When each division of the hair has been gently combed out and separated from those that are uncombed, all the hair should be drawn back and loosened by the teeth of the comb at its lower edge.

The comb should not be placed above it, as this will make it more obdurate and snarl the other hair. If a knot is loosened by the teeth of the comb inserted into the outer edges and shaken gently, the hairs uncoil and spring back into the rightful position.

A little skill and a little patience will teach a person how to disentangle any snarls with speed and ease.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

THE LIFE PRACTICAL.

"O sakes sublime
Though we may climb
On fancy's avision
And from the heights
Observe the sights
In placid contemplation,
We hear the call
And downward fall
The ground below to clutter—
The call supreme
For pie and cream
Or common bread and butter."

Enwrapped in art,
We play a part
Alone, serene and chilly
And contemplate
The higher state
And act sublime or silly.
But when it comes
To humble crumbs
To feed our hungry faces
We join the gang
And, quoting slang,
We get right down to cases.

With fragrant pipes
Where dreams are ripe
We sit around pretending
But facts are things
Equipped with stings
And were not made for bending.
We'd like to rest
Among the hives
Our time to culture giving,
But now and here
It may seem queer
We have to get a living.

What Was That?
Full of faith, hope and ambition,
A young woman applied for a position behind the footlights, where she thought the leading part would be about right.

"Ever divorced?" asked the brusque manager.
"No, sir," she replied modestly.
"Had any diamonds stolen?"
"No, and for a good reason."
"What, then, are your qualifications?"
"I can act."

The janitor had to climb a ladder and pick chunks of laughter from the rafters before they could use the stage next day.

The Difference.
"There isn't much difference between a bachelor and a married man."
"Oh, isn't there?"
"No."

"What bet your life there is."
"You bet it is?"
"A bachelor tries to please nobody,
and a married man has to please his wife."

Frank About It.
"See here, madam, when are you going to pay up?"
"Pay up?"
"Yes, pay up."
"As soon as my husband concludes to settle down and bring around his pay envelope."

Nothing Overlooked.
"Whom were you talking with?"
"The iceman."
"What did he charge you for?"
"Nothing."
"It will be in the bill, all right."

Preferred Dress Parade.
"He wants to be a soldier."
"But there is no war in sight?"
"That's why."

Norway Grange Field Day.
In joint session with the field meeting of the Norway Grange, the regular August meeting of the Waterville and Norway Dairy Testing Association was held by invitation at the home of V. E.
Dunn, Wednesday.

State Dairying Instructor A. S. Cook was present and accomplished much work during the afternoon.

The meeting was opened after a picnic dinner in the shade of the trees, by official Tester Noble. He took up the subject of feeding, using the records of the Association as an illustration. This was followed by a discussion of feeding by all the members present.

An individual and comparative scoring demonstration on some of Mr. Dunn's fine Jerseys, many of which are registered, was held. The records of some were read by Tester Noble and comparisons of the confirmation and producing capacities of the different animals were made.

Besides his work in the scoring demonstration, Instructor Cook gave a talk on the work of the Waterville and Norway Association as well as that of other associations, and the results obtained by the different organizations. This subject was followed by a general discussion by the members.

The Norway band was in attendance during the day and furnished excellent music. The combined meeting was attended by 300 people.

Mrs. Joan McAllister was showered with post cards on her 80th birthday, having received over a hundred. She is very thankful to those who so thoughtfully remembered her, but she will not be able to apply to each individually. She was also presented with two bouquets, an apron, three boxes of confectionery, two handkerchiefs, oranges and two dollars and a quarter. These were a great pleasure to her as they were so unexpected.

SILAGE FOR LIVE STOCK.

A successful dairyman, who has been feeding silage for a number of years, says of its value: Not only is good ensilage one of the best feeds for cows giving milk, but it will be excellent as a part of the ration for fattening of animals, perhaps with a little variation in the kind and amount of grain fed with it.

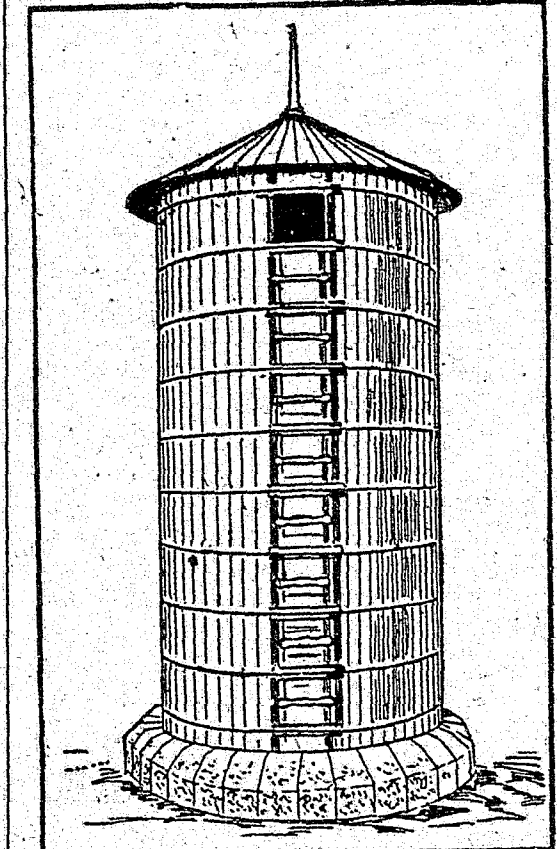

For spring calves the following winter and for the older growing animals silage will be found very useful as a part of their feed. Try it, and you will be surprised to find how well they like it. It can be fed in moderation to pigs and brood sows also with advantage.

In my opinion it requires less work to put the crop in the silo than to harvest in the old way and handle over two or three times before it can be placed before the cows or other stock. And, further, I believe the crop thus cared for will be worth at least one-third more, all things considered, than when dry fed. A large amount of corn can be put in the silo of average size, and when the work is completed it is then under shelter in the best condition now known and ready for use when wanted.

The silo should be thoroughly constructed, be air and water tight. The round form is the one now mostly used, and they should not be too large in diameter, but of good height, for the better keeping and feeding of the silage. They should be placed where it will be the most convenient, thus saving time and labor. Where there is a large stock to feed it would be better to have two moderate sized silos than a very large one. Where it is desirable to make use of a large amount of green feed in the summer season a small silo, filled expressly for the purpose, will be found of the greatest advantage, as experience has proved.

Where a crop of corn is well eared the best of them can be broken off to husk and the remainder put in the silo as soon as possible. Not only can corn be made into ensilage, although it may be the best crop for the purpose, but clover, alfalfa and even oats and rye when at the proper stage of growth. A silo filled with a mixture of corn and clover would make an excellent feed for stock.

Silage should not be fed alone to stock. There should be along with it a portion of dry fodder, and none will be better for this purpose for cows and young growing animals than good clover hay, as this comes the nearest to making a well balanced ration. The grain feed should be of such kind as will help to make the best possible ration for the animals. With such feed as this the cows when fresh in milk should do as well in winter in the production of a good quality and amount of milk as in the summer if otherwise well cared for.

On our farm there has been a silo for a good number of years, following the practice of growing fodder corn to cure and feed dry, and the conclusions here arrived at are largely the results of experience. The farmer, rightly situated, who builds a silo and makes an intelligent use of it can hardly fail of being pleased with the results and will wonder why he did not do it before.

Selecting the Sire.

Nothing is of greater importance to a breeder than the fortunate selection of a good sire. Many at the start, through lack of capital, have to put up with the best they can get at a price befitting the length of their pocket, but sometimes such a one, bought with care and good judgment and after a careful survey of the herd selected from, proves a fortune. At any rate, no breeder should ever begrudge the most he can afford for the services of a good sire, of whatever stock it may be. He must use his best judgment and aim at good blood and good breeding and get as much individual merit as he can for his money, and then he will not go far wrong.—W. R. Gilbert.

Mark Twain's Advice.

Mark Twain was a firm believer in the higher education of woman, but Hartford still remembers a speech he made one June to a platform of Hartford girl graduates.

This speech, a humorous attack on the college girl, ended: "Go forth, fall in love. Marry. Set up housekeeping. And then, when your husband wants a shirt ironed, send out for a gridiron to do it with."

About Mosquitoes.

Scientists have recently discovered that mosquitoes are probably the chief carriers of malaria, in a community. They also make the somewhat startling announcement that any inland town or city may absolutely do away with the mosquito nuisance at small cost.
All pools that can should be drained, and any water that is clean enough for fish should be stocked, instead of fishing the pond barren. One fish will take at a meal 200 or 300 wigglers. An aquarium well stocked with trout will work wonders in an infested community. Another means of getting rid of these pests is to pour a thin film of kerosene oil on the surface of the water. These troublesome insects gather in spring from barn cellars, and lay their eggs in stagnant pools of water. They complete their growth in from seven to ten days, and during that time are capable of laying from 200 to 400 eggs apiece.
The oil should be poured over these breeding places in the proportion of an ounce of oil to fifteen square feet of water, one or two minutes being sufficient to kill every full fledged mosquito, and to smother the myriads of wigglers that have not yet developed wings.
By way of experiment last season, an eminent naturalist used four or five gallons on a huge swamp which had for years been an unmitigated nuisance, sending forth armies of these nocturnal tormentors every year. The result was eminently satisfactory, and mosquitoes were at a premium there all summer.

NORTH WATERFORD.

Charles H. Rice.

Died at North Waterford, Tuesday, August 16, Charles H. Rice aged 72 years 11 months 21 days.
Mr. Rice was the grandson of Eber Rice Esq. who came to Waterford in 1785 and settled on Rice Hill. He came from Northboro, Middlesex Co., Mass., and was followed, or immediately preceded by more than forty settlers from Northboro. Among them are many families now represented in the town. The Browns, Hamlins, Morris, Haggoods, Boughtons, Longleys, Morrises, Sandersons, Warrens, Wheelers, and Whitecombs. The migration had many of the characteristics of a family migration.

Squire Rice, as he was always called, was school master, surveyor, Justice of the Peace, Town Clerk for twenty years, and twice, in 1803 and 1807, he represented the town in the Massachusetts Legislature. He filled every office modestly and efficiently and with a high sense of responsibility for he was an earnest Christian. He died in 1853.

His son Eber who followed his father on the home farm was a quiet dignified man of good sense, a peaceable neighbor and good citizen. He married Elizabeth Frye of Fryeburg. Her two sisters married Ebenezer and Nathaniel Jewett, brothers, and residents on Rice Hill. These sisters brought from "Literary Hill," the home of Fryes in Fryeburg, refinement and gentlemanly manners, unusual social culture. On the death of Nathaniel Jewett his widow married Captain Jacob Green. Their children included Dr. William W. Green, Jacob L. Green, President of the Conn. Mutual Life Insurance Co., and Professor Samuel W. Green of Toronto, a remarkably gifted trio. Mr. Eber Rice Jr. died in 1863.

Mr. Charles Rice succeeded his father on the home farm. He married Elizabeth Green, daughter of Thomas Green, of North Waterford. She was a woman of rare strength and sweetness. She died March 23, 1904. Her memory is still sacred in Waterford. Later in 1906 he married Mrs. Charlotte (Proctor) Haskell, of Waterford, who survives him and who has watched over him in his declining years with rare devotion.

Charles Rice was a man of vigorous personality. His voice rang loud and clear, his laugh was hearty. He enjoyed hard tasks and pushed them with energy. He was a most excellent man to live with and it is safe to say that he never received for services a dollar which he did not earn. He was honest, energetic and a promise made by him was rigidly kept.

He had the human weakness of all positive characters but as the Rev. Mr. Hague happily said at the funeral, the trend of his life was all upward. He was an active and devoted member of the Congregational Church at North Waterford and no sacrifice of time or money in its interest was spared by him. He was seen at his best at home surrounded by children and grandchildren whom he fondly loved and dispensed hospitality with a heartiness that was contagious. Mr. Rice is survived by one son George Rice, who succeeds him on the farm, Mrs. Addison Millett of Waterford and Mrs. Arthur Fitts of Quincy and four grandchildren. A brother Mr. George Rice of Waterford and two sisters, Mrs. J. H. Millett and Mrs. Joseph Rand, also survive him.

The funeral was at 10 o'clock at the house. The exercises were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Sias and the Rev. Mr. Hague. The house and grounds were thronged by relatives and scores of the descendants of the Massachusetts men who came to Waterford with his grandfather more than a hundred years ago. The remains were buried in flowers which loving hands profusely supplied.

WEST PARIS.

Mrs. Elmina S. Tucker.

Mrs. Elmina S. Tucker died at the home of the daughter, Mrs. S. T. White, last Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m. after a long and painful sickness of over a year.

The first of April she came here from her home in Colebrook, N. H., thinking that a change in medical skill might be beneficial, which it proved to be, in that she was more comfortable through a disease that is beyond all human skill to cure.

Mrs. Tucker was born in Chichester, N. H., February 19, 1830, and was the oldest of seven daughters who lived to grow up. Of Stephen and Hannah L. Watson. On the 19th of January, 1859, she became the wife of Charles Tucker of London, and they took their wedding journey with a team to Colebrook, in the northern part of the state, where a realty purchased farm awaited them and where they made their home for 50 years.

To them were given four children, Fannie J., wife of Barnard O'Neal of Colebrook; Cyrus, who died in infancy; Anna W., wife of S. T. White of West Paris, and Clara C., wife of William S. Austin of South Paris. These, with a husband two Austin granddaughters, also two sisters, Mrs. Abby J. Towle of Chichester, N. H., and Mrs. C. Azilia Sherburne of Revere, Mass., to mourn their loss.

She was a highly respected woman and one who had a great many friends. Her christian character afforded her strength to bear her hard sickness. The remains were taken to Colebrook for the funeral services and interment, which occurred Wednesday forenoon. The West Paris people were all very kind to one who was comparatively a stranger to them, and at the last sent in many floral tributes in remembrance, which were very gratefully received.

Rev. Isabella S. Macdonald is a two weeks' guest of Miss Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ricker recently visited Mrs. Ricker's brother, Horace Andrews, in Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Harmon of Melrose, Mass., are here with their children visiting at O. D. Ellingwood's, Mrs. Harman's brother's.

Wednesday afternoon at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dundam, a kitchen shower was given in honor of Alice Dunham.

There will be a Democratic rally at the new grange hall in West Paris, Monday evening, Aug. 29. Hon. Obadiah Gardner of Rockport will speak on political issues of the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Roderick of Portland, brought their eldest child, who died with diphtheria, to be buried here. Mrs. Roderick, nee Annie Dunham, formerly lived here, and most of her relatives live here.

C. C. Dearborn of Norway has moved into the E. C. Ouellet house, recently purchased, and Mr. Tuell, into the Levi Sheed house. Mr. Sheed, into the Frank Reed house, and Mr. Reed has moved in with his mother, Mrs. Laura Reed. Mr. Reed takes of building in the street.

A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage last week, Wednesday evening. The contracting parties were Renie Higgins and Alice Dunham. Mr. Higgins came to West Paris about two years ago, and has been in the employ of the Paris Mill Co. Mrs. Higgins is the daughter of W. F. Dunham of Lynn, Mass. She has made her home here mostly with her sister, Mrs. Carol Bacon. They have the best wishes of their many friends.
